

THE POWERS

Will, No Doubt, Blockade the Coasts of Greece.

King George's Reply Does Not Comply With the Demands Made.

The Armistice at an End and the League of Nations is the Greek Vice-Consul Notified to Leave the Island of Crete.

LONDON, March 9.—Lord Salisbury went Monday afternoon to Windsor castle, where he conferred for some time with the queen. The subject of the conference has not been made public, but it is supposed it had some bearing on the Greek question. According to announcements previously made the queen is to start for the Riviera on Wednesday and the prime minister would undoubtedly have visited her majesty under any circumstances prior to her departure. It was announced Monday evening that the French, German and Russian ministers have approved the carrying out of the armistice contained in the identical note of the powers to blockade the coasts of Greece in the event of war being declared. The queen is to leave the island. Mr. Barkis was recently instructed by King George to go to Selino to intervene with the insurgents there in behalf of the alleged Mussulmans of Kandanos. The vice consul insisted upon going in the Greek warship, but the Greek foreign minister would not permit. They offered to place a Russian torpedo boat at his service, but Mr. Barkis declined to accept the offer. It is supposed that his banishment is due to this refusal.

CANEA, March 9.—Adm. Canavaro, in command of the fleet, has notified Mr. Barkis, the Greek vice-consul, that he must leave the island. Mr. Barkis was recently instructed by King George to go to Selino to intervene with the insurgents there in behalf of the alleged Mussulmans of Kandanos. The vice consul insisted upon going in the Greek warship, but the Greek foreign minister would not permit. They offered to place a Russian torpedo boat at his service, but Mr. Barkis declined to accept the offer. It is supposed that his banishment is due to this refusal.

The foreign admirals have telegraphed to their respective governments that they will immediately dispatch 600 men to maintain order in the various towns. It is reported from a Turkish source that the Mussulmans at Kandanos and in the province of Crete have started for Ialio, where they will be out of danger. It was expected that they would be sent to Crete Monday evening. Two steamers will be dispatched to fetch their belongings.

LONDON, March 9.—A dispatch from Heraklion, island of Crete, to the Central News says that insurgents who are besieging the town of Ialio declared the armistice ended and opened fire on the place. The Ottoman troops resisted the insurgents for some time, but the British reinforcements were not sent. The British reinforcements were not sent. The British reinforcements were not sent.

ATHENS, March 9.—Nothing more than a summary of the reply of Greece to the ultimatum of the powers is obtainable, but the following is the outline of the letter as delivered to the foreign representatives in Athens.

The note says that Greece, in conformity with the wishes of the powers, recommended that the powers should accept certain reforms, but the Moslems refused these reforms, and Greece was, therefore, obliged to insist to protect her independence.

An autonomous administration for the island, the note says, does not constitute a solution of the problem. The powers are asked to accept the decision of the Greek people, and whether they desire autonomy or annexation.

The recall of the Greek fleet and troops would be a signal for further excesses in the island, in the face of which the Greeks could not remain passive. Therefore, the recall of the fleet and troops is impossible.

THE REPORT

Of the Lexow Trust Investigating Committee.

No Special Drive is Made Against Any Individual Trust.

All Combines Investigated Are Treated Alike—Trusts Investigated, Not the Trusts Themselves.

ALBANY, N. Y., March 9.—The report of the Lexow trust investigating committee will be presented to the senate Tuesday. It contains about 10,000 words. The testimony taken before the committee is reviewed at length. For a number of years a special drive is made against any individual trust, the committee treats all of the combines investigated alike. They found that these combinations to restrict the necessities do exist, and that the aggregations of capital which have been formed in the past are nearly every instance for the purpose of regulating trade, suppressing competition, controlling the output and dictating prices. The report dwells at length upon the great danger that is likely to arise from the continuance of the operations of these aggregations of capital and protests that affirmative legislation should be enacted with a view to restraining, if not entirely prohibiting, the operations of such monster combinations.

The report states that the committee believes the factors' agreements between the trusts and their agents are a great extent the potential agency through which these combinations are enabled to fulfill the purposes of the corporations.

The committee is working on the remedial legislation but Chairman Lexow does not think he will have bills ready for introduction Tuesday.
